Senor Sagasta has communicated the situation of Spanish politics to the Queen Regent, who will entrust him with the task of forming a new ministry.

Madrid: Chamberlain's speech at Birmingham, on the British-American alliance, has created much consternation in official circles here and it is believed that Senor Sagasta has instructed the Spanish ambassador at London to protest to Marquis Salisbury. A general European outbreak is feared.

Washington: A cablegram was received from Commodore Dewey to-day. The department would say no more than that Dewey thanked to the president for his promptness and spoke in terms of the highest praise of his officers and men.

Hong Kong: The despatch boat, McCulloch, arrived here today, and reports that a Spanish warship has captured the Spanish gun boat, Callon, while the latter was attempting to enter Manila harbor. The Spaniard was ignorant of the existence of war. Two shots were fired across her bow before she surrendered. The McCulloch reports the situation in Manila unchanged and that there have been no further hostilities. Admiral Dewey's command is in the harbor. The insurgents have seized all railroads and have prevented river communications.

London: In spite of certain announcements in which the wish was father to the thought, it is impossible to give any better account of the condition of Hon. Wm. E. Gladstone. Those who recently visited him found him slowly but quietly sinking, though how long will this ebbing process last no man can tell. Foolish and fussy people whose exuberant vitality is sadly out of place at this time, have been proposing a national expression of sympathy for Mr. Gladstone hoping to obtain from him in return a message to the nation. Happily the dying statesman is too well guarded by loving hands, and will be allowed to pass to rest in peace.

SASKATCHEWAN HERALD: Edmonton the Modern Mecca, has attracted two more pilgrims from Battleford in the persons of Charles H. Millie and Wm. Turner. They chose team and wagon as their means of transport.

DR. BRAITHWAITE received last week a letter from his brother C. P. Braithwaite who is bound for the gold fields overland, going by way of Fort St. John and Fort Graham. The letter is written from Duvagan on the 8th of April and in it Mr. Braithwaite states that his party found the ice on the Peace unsafe and instead of travelling up the river as first intended, they had changed their plans and would proceed overland when the grass started. They had procured important information from two of Insp. Moodie's returned guides and intended continuing by the route the police party had taken.

MR. HUMBERSTONE returned on Friday night from the Athabasca crossing, on the Slave Lake trail, where he had gone to put in his ferry. The work was completed and the ferry running on the 6th, and everything is now in good shape and working well. John Foley is busy constructing his ferry at the Pembina and pending its completion travellers are transported over on a raft. Mr. Humberstone met fully 200 horses between here and the river—some had packs, some wagons, some carriages, and in fact almost every possible device that could be used for transportation was met.

We are in receipt of a letter from John Francis, who was here some months ago as a member of the late Clatworthy party, in which he wishes us to emphatically contradict the statement which appeared in the "Minneapolis Tribune" and was afterwards reproduced in the BULLETIN, being an alleged interview with him, in which he was credited with telling some Munchausen-like stories of the gold he had found in the north. Mr. Francis states that it is solely the product of a reporter with a large imagination and denies ever having made any such statements as those credited to him.

R. W. CAMPBELL, who with Morris L. Willard, returned from the Willis party some weeks ago, received on last mail word from the company in answer to their request for additional supplies. Messrs. Campbell and Willard, it will be remembered, returned as the representatives of one of the largest parties which ever passed through here, to notify their company of the change of plans of the expedition, who had decided to continue by water, and request additional supplies as the amount taken was found to be insufficient. In the letter the company agreed to the change of plans and consented to supply part of the outfit asked for. Morris L. Willard will probably return from Chicago to-night and if so he and Mr. Campbell will return to Peace River crossing at once to notify the expedition.

FRED P. SPENCER and Angus Murray, both of Minnesota, and representing a large number of families from that State, came in on Friday night to look over the district here. They, with immigration agent C. W. Sutter, have been inspecting the country and are so favorably impressed that they will locate here.

THE Humberstone says: Letters have been received from the O'Neill party, of Fronta, Colorado, written at Lesser Slave Post on April 2nd. This party left South Edmonton on March 18th and arrived at the lake on April 1st. Their horses were in good condition and they reported in much better condition than they expected.

ELEVEN dredging licenses have been granted at the local land office within the past two weeks for the privilege of dredging the Saskatchewan for gold. Each lease covers ten miles of river bed and the locations all adjoin, commencing a few miles below Carlton, and running 105 miles west. This means quite a gold boom for our town if all these claims are worked, which it is the present intention to do.—Prince Albert Advocate.

SASKATCHEWAN HERALD: A few weeks ago the Senate Yukon Committee wrote to Mr. P. G. Pambrun, of this town, asking if he could appear before them and give information about the Liard river and the country in which it takes its rise; and on Tuesday morning he left for Ottawa to appear before them. This being one of the districts to which prospectors are this year directing their attention, it is felt to be of importance that all sources of immediate information should be tried rather than await the slower process of official exploration.

THE Burlington Record utilizes half a column of valuable space in reproducing a letter from a Geo. Noyes, formerly of Burlington, Ont., but now of Dewey, Alta. Mr. Noyes confines his statements to abuse of the Edmonton route and some of the statements he makes are, to say the least, surprising; for instance: "The route is simply terrible. The horses they are selling are old outworn animals that nobody would have in civilization. They don't know what oats are and consequently when they are started for the Klondike, they just stand the trip about a week and then lie down and die. Most of the people who have gone are turning back and going to the coast from where they take a boat. This is the only sure way of a man ever getting to Klondike." Such vaporings as these need no denial. Apparently the writer has been no nearer Edmonton than miles away. The news that the horses sold are "outlaws" will be surprising and that travellers are returning to go by the coast is equally surprising as not one single case of this kind has occurred as far as known. He draws comparisons between the Edmonton and Victoria routes, never having heard within hundreds of miles of either. If his knowledge of the coast route is on a par with his knowledge of the Edmonton route, the advice contained is certainly valuable.

SUPREME COURT.

Court closed at 6 30 on Friday evening, after an unusually short sitting. A number of cases were set down for hearing, but for one reason and another the greater number were held over to come up again at the next sitting of the court here.

The case of Armour, et al., v. Humberstone, et al., was the only civil case heard, and it was disposed of by reserving judgment.

Alex. Hamelin, charged with assault on his wife and sent up for trial at the preliminary hearing of the case, was brought up for trial and discharged.

This case closed the docket, and the court adjourned.

SESSION NOTES.

Ottawa, May 5, '98.

The plebiscite came up for second reading on Tuesday afternoon. Hon. Sidney Fisher, minister of agriculture, who is the promoter of the bill, moved the second reading in a concise, comprehensive and moderate speech. He said that the liberal party had at the convention held in Ottawa in 1893 given its pledge to submit the question of prohibition to a popular vote. The present bill was in fulfillment of that pledge.

Hon. G. E. Foster spoke at considerable length in reply. He did not oppose the proposition to take a vote, but doubted the efficacy of a popular vote on the abstract question to bring about a practical result. He also doubted the good faith of the government in the matter and asked for assurances that if the vote went in favor of prohibition it would be followed by prohibitory legislation.

Hon. Sir Wilfrid Laurier replied that the will of the people would be carried out, but would not come down to closer details. The vote would probably be brought on during the coming fall.

Some members, not temperance men, objected to cider being included in the prohibition. It would cause many farmers to vote against prohibition and they hinted that this was the object of the government in inserting the word. Hon. Mr. Fisher explained that as cider was an intoxicant it was not included in the prohibition. He also pointed out that cider was not merely apple juice and therefore was intoxicating. Some further objections were urged to the franchise act of '98 being specified as the one under which the vote was to be taken, but the government was firm on that point. The consideration of the second reading and of the clauses in committee of the whole was concluded on Tuesday evening without amendment, and the bill now stands for the formal third reading. The discussion was very mild on both sides. Mr. Osler, of Toronto, made a violent anti-temperance speech, but as the propriety and method of the vote and not the principle involved in the vote was the question under discussion no reply was made to him.

While the government has not stated what conditions will be required to be fulfilled in the plebiscite vote before prohibitory legislation will be introduced it may be taken for granted that the position is something like this: If a good majority of the electors turn out and vote and a majority of that majority declare for prohibition the government will have no option, but to introduce prohibitory legislation. But if only a minority of the electors vote, even though a majority of that minority should vote in favor of prohibition the government would probably not feel justified in accepting this as a warrant for the drastic measures required under a prohibitory law. In view of this possible aspect of the case there are many friends of prohibition who think it would have been advisable to bring on the vote on prohibition at the same time as the next general elections. The interest taken at the general elections would ensure a maximum vote being polled. And with the polling of such a vote the result would be decisive one way or the other. Besides the vote would cost practically nothing in that case, and if the decision was against prohibition the case would not be prejudiced by the cry of economy in the future. Now, however, the vote will cost from $200,000 to $250,000 and if the result is adverse, or abortive from a small turn out, it will be a long time before another like chance will be offered to test public feeling on the question.

Another very perplexing question which may confront the attempt to a successful prohibition vote will arise if one or more of the provinces should go strongly against prohibition although the majority of the Dominion should go strongly for it. The civil law is administered by the provinces not by the Dominion. A prohibitory law would be part of the civil law and therefore would have to be administered by the provinces. What chance will there be of effective prohibition if the authorities who are charged with its administration are hostile to it, and if their hostility is accentuated by its being forced upon them by the votes of the people of other provinces. Inasmuch as the right of control of the liquor traffic rests with the provinces, as the civil law is administered by them, in the hands of the provinces should be placed the power to prohibit. The fact that by a peculiar quirk of the constitution it does not rest there, is only a reason why the construction should be so amended as to place it where it properly belongs.

However, this is now an after consideration. The opportunity for a full and free vote is given in the way in which it has been asked, and the practical result will, and must, depend entirely upon the strength in numbers and energy shown by the friends of prohibition in the coming contest. The more difficulties there are in the way of securing and enforcing prohibition the greater the necessity for a full vote and a large prohibition majority as the best and indeed only means of solving those difficulties.

GOLD STRIKE.

Joaquin Miller, the well known poet, writes the following letter from the Yukon:

Dawson City, Alaska, March 20.—I was called from the cabin up Bonanza last night by a man we keep as sort of picket, who brought the most enthusiastic news about gold that has ever yet startled the world.

He said that news had come to Dawson that some Swede and Norwegian woodchoppers on an island in the Yukon river, twelve miles from Dawson, had struck gold thirty-five feet down, in quantities that had never yet been heard of in any prospect hole that as yet had been sunk to bedrock. Of course, I was in town as early as possible, but all news lips seemed sealed. The town was and is at this hour empty. Twelve miles is not far away and the mining population of Dawson is out of town. I went to the barracks for the first time in my life, hoping to find the thread by which to unravel the story rightly. All quiet and I ask no questions. Judge Maguire has gone to church. Captain Constantine was thoughtful and as quiet as the grave. At last, as some excuse and because, too, I really meant it, I told him that in case there was any trouble, as some sensational men are saying there will be over the taxes, he could count on at least one American citizen to enroll himself as a soldier of the Dominion. But the captain only thanked me, said there would be no trouble, as he believed; men were talking for the sake of making news, but if trouble should come he could defend the men of my country as well as the men of his own. Upon insisting that I should stay to lunch he said no more, nothing at all about what I was so wild to hear.

Then I went to Captain John Healey, my oscom friend in Idaho when we were boys together nearly forty years ago. "Yes, it is all true," said Healey in a whisper. "I have it from the man who took out half an ounce in half a pan on an island in the bed of the Yukon. I was not to tell, but I tell you it is the biggest thing ever yet found in the world. What kind of a country have you and I got into in our last years, old pard, eh?"

I soon got track of the man who had panned out this dirt. I found him at lunch with the gold commissioner; so you see it is straight goods. The finders had come straight down to headquarters, and as, by a recent common sense rule, the Canadian officials are allowed to locate claims, Captain McGregor and one or two others are soon on the return to the island with the discoverers. McGregor says: "the distance is eighteen miles above Dawson. The men who found the gold are woodchoppers. They first found some color on the island last fall; then they began to sink, but would tire of it and would go on with their woodchopping; then they would sink again. At last they got down to some sort of gray clay; the first pan was $4. This was on March 12; then they took out some drift and got $6 to the first pan and so on. Then they decided to come to Dawson and lay the matter before the officials. There is no provision in the Canadian law for locating on an island. But the gold commissioner has decided to allow a claim to run full across the island and from bank to bank of the Yukon. A claim is 100 feet long with 100 feet alternate for the Dominion. This island is called Monte Cristo Island, and is about 2,000 feet long and 600 feet wide. The gold is the strangest sort I ever saw, black, rough, coarse and heavy. It is perhaps the best gold yet found here. No copper or silver in it to speak of. It is not worn a bit, but looks as if it rotted out of the quartz just where it was found. The bedrock is rough and tilted on edge or is a riddle, and the rock is brown with a gray and bluish sand."

F. Wade, one of the Dominion officials, who returned to the island with the discoverers was so astounded with what he saw in the way of gold in slugs and nuggets in the gray sand brought up in the battered old bucket from a hole by the woodchoppers cabin that he could hardly believe his senses, and wishing that nothing but the truth should get to the public he had the men make oath as to the discovery, and I insert it here:

Canada, N. W. T., Yukon District.—Edward Sorenland, John Peterson, Nils Sorenland and R. B. Beattie, all of Monte Cristo Island, opposite Gunne creek, on the Yukon river, about eighteen miles above Dawson, severally make oath and say:

That we were present at the discovery of claim on said island on the 12th of March, when one pan of dirt taken at bedrock on said discovery claim, yielded $4.68, and we, Edward

Sorenland and John Peterson, of the same place, miners, severally make oath and say that we were present and panned out one pan of dirt on said claim and said pan yielded $6.80 before me at Monte Christo Island, above mentioned, this 18th day of March, 1898.

F. Wade, Registrar of Lands.
Edward Sorenland,
John Peterson,
Nils Sorenland,
R. B. Beattie.

The prospect hole is deep but small and the arrangements poor for getting the dirt out, as the men were only sinking the hole as a sort of curious diversion so that the bucket which was brought up for Wade and McGregor was tilted over and brought up only about half a pan. This they panned out and came over to Dawson, and only this hour, in the presence of the gold commissioner and others emptied it out. It yielded some gold of fine quality. This is startling news—more startling than the discovery of gold on the Moose pastures. For here are thousands of islands and thousands of miles of river. If this sort of thing can be found all along the bed of the river, as it is now found in this first prospect hole ever sunk in the bed of the Yukon, why, the world will have more gold than it can handle or know what to do with.

But enough of comment. I have only time to say that should any sensational stories be published outside about an attempt to found a new republic here or any sensation here about resistance to the law, you may set them down as of that sort of foolishness which said we were atavizing on the Yukon. We did not starve, and there will be no resistance to Canadian laws.

THE WAR.

(SPECIAL TO THE BULLETIN.)

New York, May 14.—Despatches this morning to the Journal here, from Key West, say that the American gunboat Windom has just returned from Southern Cuba and reports the bombardment of Cienfuegos by American warships. Eight Americans were wounded in the engagement, two of whom died afterwards from their wounds. The officers of the Windom report that Cienfuegos light-house was destroyed, the fort was levelled to the ground, the arsenal was blown up and the town set on fire. The wounded brought here (Key West) are Enezo Santiezo, J. Rockweiser, Isaac H. H. Duran, all of the gunboat Marblehead, Captain Maynard. The two seamen who died from their wounds, were also brought here. The Marblehead, the Montgomery and the Windom were the American ships engaged in the fight against the Forts and Spanish ships. The Spanish loss is estimated, by the Americans, at 400 killed.

Madrid, May 14.—There is great rejoicing here over the Spanish victories at Cardenas and Cienfuegos. It has infused new life into the government and the people are enthusiastic and hopeful of a continuation of success to the Spanish arms.

It is said that Manila insurgents are anything but friendly to the United States and do not look with favor upon the possible and probable possession of their island by the American government.

Actions against the United States, aggregating one million dollars, are to be taken by the owners of vessels captured by American gun boats.

The Gursie, a United States transport with a cargo of supplies and ammunition to the Cubans, failed to make a landing in Cuba.

On account of the dissatisfaction and probable rebellion in Spain, a new Spanish cabinet will probably be formed to-day.

The United States flying squadron has sailed from New Port, destination at present unknown.

The United States fleet did not do much damage at San Juan de Porto Rico.

Admiral Dewey complimented General Montojo on the latter's bravery.

AGRICOLA.

Seeding is nearly completed in this settlement. A large acreage of wheat has been sown and much care has been taken in the selection of pure seed. Bluestoning the wheat has been carefully attended to, so that we may expect to see some good samples of wheat this season.

The school district has been re-organized. It now comprises sections 26, 27, 28, 29, 32, 33, 34, 35, and the north halves of sections 21 and 22 in township 53, range 22, and sections 3, 4, 5, 8, 9, 10 and the south half of section 15 in township 54, range 22. A new school house will be built on the northwest corner of section 34, township 53, range 22, on the cross roads, at an early date, and tenders will shortly be called for its construction. The first meeting of the new district will be held at 6 p. m. on Saturday, May 21st, when a trustee will be elected.

May 9, '98.

STONY PLAIN.

J. A. Calder, B. A., visited the schools of Stony Plain this week. Malcolm McKinlay has commenced sawing the lumber for the Lutheran church.

Seeding is over. Valentine Mohr and Elizabeth Byre were married in the Lutheran church here on Tuesday, May 10th, by Rev. Mr. Eberhardt. A large number of friends witnessed the ceremony and then accompanied the bride and groom to the home of the groom's father where the evening and night was pleasantly spent. We tender the couple our congratulations.

P. McPhie lost his stable and some stock with prairie fires last week.

R. L. Alexander, agent for the Alexandria cream separator, is doing the Plain this week. A party of Klondikers passed through the Plain to-day with a number of pack horses.

A meeting of the Stony Plain foot ballers is called for Saturday. They are waiting patiently for signs of life in Edmonton.

In the Lutheran church one week ago twelve babies were christened and they were all boys. Heat it who can!

ATHABASCA LANDING.

The Plaiddealer: Already 125 boats have gone down the Athabasca en route to the gold fields.

Guides are asking from $40 to $50 to pilot parties from the Landing to Fort McMurray.

The Hudson's Bay Co. is charging $5 per ton to portage goods at Grand Rapids.

The steamer Sparrow has been successfully launched and expects to start down the river to-day.

BEAVER LAKE EAST.

The public school here re-opens on June 1st. The lake was clear of ice on the 10th. It is a few inches lower than at this time last year.

Seeding is rapidly progressing, and will soon be over. There was a heavy shower of rain on the 10th. Mr. Guy, Presbyterian missionary, now holds fortnightly services at the south end and in the Logan settlement, and weekly service in the church here.

The gophers are active and numerous. It is to be hoped that the Northwest government will give us a fresh supply of poison, as it is badly needed. About ten years ago the (then) Northwest council donated a set of maps, a globe, teacher's desk and some pupils desks to each territorial school. Many country schools would like to see the "experiment" repeated.

A. E. POTTER.

South Omaha, Neb., March 1, 1898.

To whom it may concern:

Speaking of A. E. Potter, of Edmonton, as a practical miner, I have only to speak of personal experience. The washing apparatus which he designed and manufactured for me last season, 1897, gave entire satisfaction. It was capable of most thoroughly washing, separating and saving the gold and black sand of 1 cubic yard gravel per minute. It was a most perfect separator, separating stones from very dirt first, then the gold, and lastly the black sand.

THE GALICIAN AS SETTLER.

From Austria, a large number of Galicians are expected, those who have already settled in the Northwest having sent the most encouraging reports home of the healthfulness of the climate, the opportunity for working out a sturdy independence and the increasing facilities offered for the disposal of all the farm products through the wonderful development of gold mining in British Columbia and the Yukon. Prince Krapotkin, the famous Russian political exile and publicist, who made a tour through the Dominion in connection with his attendance upon the meeting of the British Association for the Advancement of Science, has offered the warmest testimony to the conduct and efforts of the Galicians, and speaks of them as among the most likely people to make good settlers. Indeed, the report of this keen observer, which takes the form of a highly instructive article in the Nineteenth Century, must have the effect of stimulating a general interest in the possibilities of the Northwest and of inducing large numbers from the United Kingdom to make trial of opportunity whose scope and prospects are impossible in the older lands. The Prince finds in the millions of acres of fertile soil awaiting the husbandman, the solution of many perplexing problems of congestion and agricultural and industrial depression in the older countries of Europe, and expresses his wonder that such unvalued opportunities are offered in the Dominion have not been more largely availed of.

ATHABASCA LANDING.

Plainsdealer. Parties coming in from the Landing this week met 125 wagon loads of freight and report the trail in excellent condition.

There are 300 or 400 Klondikers at the Landing at the present time and fully twice that number have gone down the river.

The Hudson Bay Co. have sent six flat boats loaded with ten tons each, down the river in charge of Chief Factor Cammell, of Fort Simpson.

E. C. Heins, of Boston, has built a 45 foot scow fitted with steam and dump having a capacity of 300 gallons per minute, 40% sand, to be used in washing gold on the upper Athabasca.

The Alaska Mining & Trading Co. has built a 40 foot boat which will be fitted with steam power and used for towing boats down the river. They have also begun the erection of another, 70 feet long.

Francis Bourassa, ex-M. P., is dead. Lord Aberdeen's resignation of the governor-generalship has been accepted.

Hon. Wm. E. Gladstone's death may occur at any moment. He is gradually sinking.

Engineer Dakor and Fireman Smythe were instantly killed in an accident on the C. P. R. near Walsh.

The funeral of Dalton McCarthy took place in Toronto on Saturday. It was one of the largest ever known in the history of the city. It seemed as though the entire population of the city had come to pay their last tribute to the memory of one of Canada's most eminent men.

BRIDGE CONSTRUCTION.

On Friday afternoon, on the invitation of A. St. Laurent, government engineer in charge of the bridge construction here, a deputation consisting of the Mayor and Councillors, Messrs. McCauley and Tims, M. L. A.'s, and representatives of the press, visited the scene of operations on the bridge and watched with interest several tests applied to prove the hardness and quality of the cement of which the piers are constructed.

On the arrival of the visitors they were received by Mr. St. Laurent, in his office, where several tests proving the quality of the cement were made. A mould is made of the pure cement, making when cast a piece with a neck one inch square, joining two larger bodies. This mould, when hardened, is put in the test machine, so constructed that one pound weight on the end of a lever applies 50 pounds of strain to the one inch neck of cement beneath. To apply the test the cement is placed in the frame and the weight applied by a stream of shot which runs automatically into a small measure hung on the end of a lever. When the strain has become too great the cement breaks and the pile falls, automatically cutting off the flow of shot. The shot is then weighed and the extent of strain applied thereby ascertained. The government regulations require that pure cement, that is before it has been mixed with sand, shall stand a strain of 380 pounds to the square inch. Two tests were made by Mr. St. Laurent, in each case the strength of the cement was greatly in excess of that required, the first showing a strength of 625 pounds and the second 600. In the construction of the piers the cement is mixed with sand in the proportion of two to one for the inside and one and a-half to one for the facing of the outside. In this form the cement retains only half the strength it has when pure, but after hardening for a year or two the sand becomes amalgamated with the cement and becomes practically as strong as the pure Portland. Cement requires about three days to set, but gradually hardens until it is a year old.

After witnessing the several satisfactory tests made by Mr. St. Laurent, the visitors adjourned to the scene of work, where from 40 to 50 workmen were busily engaged in completing the piers and getting them in readiness to receive the superstructure. The north abutment is within six feet of its required height. The first pier has still eleven feet of cement to be put on, the second nine and the third fourteen feet. Work is shifted from one pier to another in order to allow the material to harden gradually and set firmly before applying too much weight. In order to further prove the quality of the material being used, the base of the piers near the water mark were attacked with cold chisel and hammer and the scarcely perceptible mark made by the chisel proved the cement to be as hard as stone.

The piers are set 175 feet apart and when completed will be 7x24 on top. At the base they are, of course, much broader, and the up-stream side is built slanting and rounding to avoid being injured by the down coming ice in the spring.

As far as known the tenders for the superstructure have not yet been called for, and Mr. St. Laurent estimates that it will require at least two months to have the necessary iron work made and brought here. By that time he is quite confident that the piers and abutments will be ready to receive the iron work, so that no delay need occur on that score. The time which will be necessary to complete the superstructure is too indefinite to permit of any calculation.

FOOTBALL.

A meeting, at which a large number of footballers attended, was held last Tuesday evening for the purpose of organizing a town club. G. W. Gairdner was appointed chairman and the following officers elected: President, W. S. Edmiston; vice-president, Geo. J. Bryan; secretary, Ralph Bellamy; captain, S. A. Bentley; executive committee, Messrs. Kelly, Armstrong, Bentley and Jamieson.

It was decided that the executive committee choose a team.

Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday evenings were appointed for practice nights.

The first match of the season took place on Friday last, Arbor Day, when the old school team and the town team met on the race track, and after a close and interesting game, were forced to stop with honors even, both teams having scored two goals apiece. S. A. Bentley and A. McLeod were the respective captains; R. G. Hardisty, referee.

The next match to take place here will be on Tuesday, the 24th, when representative teams from Stony Plain and the town will play on the race track in the afternoon.

ANGUS RIDGE.

The attendance for Battle river school district for April was 14. The larger pupils will soon be back after seeding so that there will be a larger attendance for May.

Miss Mamie Waterston is attending the Battle river school. Squire Shantz visited the burg on Saturday.

Rev. Mr. Purdy, Kingston, is the new Presbyterian missionary who succeeds Rev. Mr. Wood.

There will be a large acreage of grain sown here this spring.

George Waterston's family, who had the measles, have quite recovered. Mr. Wigg visited Mr. Thirk this week.
